

NEEDS & WISHES [START]

We would like art to bring awareness to sustainability or climate change

Art that draws attention to the issue of sustainability itself, as well as to the climate crisis and social issues.

We would like art to restore the environment

Earthworks artists focus on environmental restoration, creating art pieces to repair or restore damaged ecosystems. This is also called ecological art.

We would like an artwork, made in an eco-conscious way

The subject of the artwork itself is not related to climate change or sustainability. But the intention is to specifically implement the artwork in harmony with the natural world, in a way that is not harmful to the planet and takes into account the limits of resources.
